DIVORCE LAW TO BE AUTHORISED IN HONGKONG

U.S. MARINE ARRESTED

HAWKER'S DEATH IN SHANGHAI

SKULL FRACTURED BY A STOOL

(Our Own Correspondent).

Shanghai, Aug. 27.

An American marine has been placed under arrest in consequence of the death of a Chinese hawk. He is being held in custody by the American military authorities for the time being.

At the inquest held yesterday upon the dead man it was revealed that he died as the result of a fractured skull.

Witnesses of the incident, in which the man met with his injury state that after obtaining some apples from the hawk, the marine had an altercation with him regarding payment.

A brawl followed and the hawk received a blow over the head from a stool.

COTTON STRIKE INEVITABLE

BREAKDOWN OF PARLEY

200,000 COMING OUT TO-DAY

London, Aug. 26.

A strike of 200,000 Lancashire weavers to-morrow is inevitable. A strike of 200,000 spinners shortly is almost equally certain.

The conference between employers and the operatives' organisations of the weaving section of the cotton industry, which have been proceeding for three days at Manchester with a view to preventing a stoppage, broke up this evening.

It is understood that the breakdown of the conversations was on the question of the reinstatement of already striking operatives and it is believed that the breakdown is complete.

In view of the failure of the conference, there appears to be nothing to prevent the strike of the weavers, numbering at least 200,000, called for to-morrow, August 27, against the proposed wage cuts and for the reinstatement of the men who struck against the system of more looms per weaver.

SPINNERS' DECISION.

The trade unions governing the spinning section of the industry have, in the meantime, rejected the proposals of the employers for a reduction of wages by 2/9 in the £ and this has brought to a head the dispute between the mill-owners and the spinners.

The spinners' organisations are prepared for a ballot of their members immediately on the issue as to whether the wage cuts are to be accepted or whether the executive is empowered to negotiate.

The employers' notice of reduction has still three weeks to run. Two hundred thousand men and women are involved in this dispute.—Reuter.

At Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary Club, Mr. W.B. Watson will speak on "The Spirit of Rotary in a Scrap of Paper."

Hongkong experienced a heavy rainstorm last night and early this morning, with considerable flooding in various parts. The Royal Observatory reports a fall of 4.40 inches during the 24 hours from 10 a.m. yesterday.

RUTHLESS BOMBING ALLEGED

JAPANESE ATTACKS IN JEHO.

Peking, Aug. 27.
Chinese reports published here accuse the Japanese military authorities of causing heavy loss of life and great material damage as the result of continuous bombing raids carried out against villages and towns in Jehol, outside the Great Wall, on Japanese suspicion that they are harbouring Volunteers.—Reuter.

RIVIERA CAR SMASH

MRS. BARNEY TO BE SUMMONED

Nice, Aug. 26.

Mrs. Elvira Barney is to be summoned to appear at the Law Courts at Grasse on September 11th in connection with the motor accident in which she was recently involved.

She will have to answer a charge of causing bodily harm, by imprudence, to Countess Karolyi in the mishap which occurred on the Nices-Cannes road on July 31st. In a collision, Countess Karolyi's car was thrown fifty feet across the road, while Mrs. Barney's car, after ricocheting, crashed into a telegraph post, severely injuring her arm, while a man in Mrs. Barney's car was thrown out and cut about the face and arms.

The usual penalties for the offence with which Mrs. Barney is being charged are a fine and a judgment for damages. The maximum penalty of imprisonment is seldom imposed.—Reuter.

THE HOOVER PLAN

AMERICAN FINANCIAL CRISIS ATTACKED

MORTGAGE ORDER

Washington, Aug. 26.

"We are convinced that we can overcome the major financial crisis," declared President Hoover to-day in the course of his speech at the opening of the "Anti-Depression Conference."

The conference is being attended by business and industrial leaders of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts, and it is understood that President Hoover will present to them a new industrial plan, which will include provision for a five-day week for workers.

The agenda also includes discussion of a programme for a wide expansion of credit facilities, and for the repair and maintenance of railways.

SAVING MORTGAGED PROPERTY.

President Hoover announced at the outset that the receivers of the National Banks have been ordered to suspend for sixty days foreclosures threatened on mortgages held by the banks, and State authorities have been asked to take similar steps to delay foreclosures by the State Banks.

He also announced that a new Home Loan banking system, which will have at its disposal some $134,000,000, will be operating as from October 15.—Reuter.

LATEST RADIO APPARATUS

FOR CUTTING OUT OF INTERFERENCE

London, Aug. 26.

The Radio Exhibition at Olympia was visited this morning by the Postmaster General, Sir Kingsley Wood, who inspected the apparatus staged by the Post Office to assist in cutting out interference with reception.—British Wireless.

IMPORTANT NEW ORDINANCE

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS PRECEDENT

LOCAL DOMICILE

HONGKONG WILL HAVE ITS OWN DIVORCE LAW IN THE NEAR FUTURE, UNLESS IT IS HIS MAJESTY'S PLEASURE TO DISALLOW THE ORDINANCE.

Following the precedent set recently by the Straits Settlement, an Ordinance is to be introduced in Legislative Council shortly conferring upon the Supreme Court of Hongkong jurisdiction in divorce and matrimonial causes.

Subject to its special provision, the Supreme Court will act and give relief on principles which are, as nearly as may be, conformable to the principles on which the High Court of Justice in England acts and gives relief in matrimonial proceedings.

Power to grant judicial separations, to order restitution of conjugal rights and the payment of alimony are embodied in the Ordinance, which also provides that decrees nisi may be made absolute in three months.

MAIN PROVISIONS OF ORDINANCE

It is provided that nothing in the ordinance shall authorise the court to make any decree of dissolution of marriage except—

(a) where the marriage was either a Christian marriage or the civil equivalent of a Christian marriage; and

(b) where the domicile of the parties to the marriage at the time when the petition was presented was in the Colony.

Nothing in the ordinance shall authorise the court to make any decree of nullity of marriage except where the marriage to which the decree relates purported to have been celebrated in the Colony and to have been a Christian marriage or its civil equivalent.

It is further provided that the court may not make any decree of judicial separation or of restitution of conjugal rights except where the marriage was a Christian marriage or its civil equivalent and where both the parties to the marriage were in the Colony at the time of the commencement of proceedings.

GROUND FOR DIVORCE.

A husband may present a petition to the court praying that his marriage may be dissolved on the ground that his wife has, since the solemnization thereof, been guilty of adultery.

A wife may present a petition to the court praying that her marriage may be dissolved on the ground that since the solemnization thereof her husband has been guilty of—(i) adultery; or (ii) rape, sodomy or bestiality.

THE CO-RESPONDENT.

Upon any such petition presented by a husband, the petitioner shall make the alleged adulterer a co-respondent to the petition, unless he is excused from doing so on one of the following grounds, to be allowed by the court:—

(a) that the respondent is leading the life of a prostitute, and that the petitioner knows of no person with whom the adultery has been committed;

(b) that the name of the alleged adulterer is unknown to the petitioner, although he has made due efforts to discover it;

(c) that the alleged adulterer is dead.

Upon any such petition presented by a wife, the petitioner shall make the alleged adulterer a co-respondent to the petition, unless he is excused from doing so on one of the following grounds, to be allowed by the court:—

(a) that the respondent is leading the life of a prostitute, and that the petitioner knows of no person with whom the adultery has been committed;

(b) that the name of the alleged adulterer is unknown to the petitioner, although he has made due efforts to discover it;

(c) that the alleged adulterer is dead.

OTTAWA— AND AFTER

AGREEMENTS WITH OTHER STATES

London, Aug. 26.

The Prime Minister, having flown from Lissiemouth this morning, arrived on the platform at Waterloo Station just as the boat train from Southampton, with four members of the British delegation to the Ottawa Conference drew alongside.

Sir John Simon, who, in another aeroplane had also flown to London from Lissiemouth, joined the Prime Minister's party, which included several members of the Cabinet.

His Majesty King was represented by Lord Hampden, and when the delegates, headed by Mr. Stanley Baldwin, alighted there was a hearty exchange of greetings.

The cheers which were raised for the homecoming statesmen at conclusion of their successful mission were warmly taken up by the large crowd assembled to witness the scene, and these were renewed as the party drove off.

JOINT ACTION BY THE EMPIRE

TARIFF CHANGES AT SAME TIME

(Special to "Telegraph")

Ottawa, Aug. 26.

It is learned that a uniform agreement is contemplated among the governments of the British Commonwealth of Nations that their parliaments shall meet early in October, at the same time, to give effect to the tariff changes consequent upon the Ottawa agreements.

The statement is made by reliable sources after a long meeting of the Canadian Cabinet, that uniform Parliamentary action is probable in the first and second weeks of October.—Reuter.

SEQUEL TO ALLEGED GREYHOUND SMUGGLING ATTEMPT

("Telegraph" Special).

Shanghai, Aug. 27.

As a sequel to the attempt to smuggle greyhounds into Shanghai, by putting the animals ashore at an unauthorised port near Shanghai, the Chinese Customs Administration have confiscated the s.s. Ball's Head.

The vessel is being offered for sale by public auction.

The confiscation can be subject to Consular protest but it is understood that the British authorities

YORKSHIRE CHAMPIONS

AMAZING KNOCK BY LEYLAND

With a typically brilliant victory over Hampshire Yorkshire yesterday won the county cricket championship for season 1932.

Sutcliffe made his eleventh century of the season in Yorkshire's first innings, but the real thrills of the match were provided by Leyland when Yorkshire were seeking to force a victory against time.

They led by 133 runs on the first innings and went out a second time with instructions to make all possible runs in the quickest possible time. They were able to declare with 199 runs on the board for the loss of five wickets, Leyland giving one of the most majestic displays of hitting in his career to score of their 199 runs 153 not out! Hampshire were then dismissed for 160.

PHENOMENAL SCORES.

Phenomenal scoring marked many of the games. Middlesex with 573 (in reply to a total of 479 for 6 wickets declared), Gloucester and Glamorgan all exceeded five hundred runs in their first innings.

Lee, Hearne and Hendren made centuries for Middlesex, M. J. Turnbull (205) and Dai Davies made the Glamorgan score possible and Hammond, 264, played the principal part in the Gloucestershire feat. None of these teams succeeded in winning, though Lancashire still needed over a hundred runs and had only three wickets remaining to avoid an innings defeat when stumps were drawn.

With over a thousand runs for 16 wickets in the first innings of Leicester and Middlesex there was of course no prospect of a result. The aggregate of 1106 runs for 17 wickets gives an average of 65 runs per wicket! Forty-two runs per wicket resulted from the Glamorgan-Notts match, 1146 runs for 31 wickets were scored by Surrey and Northants and 1133 for 33 wickets were obtained by Warwick and Worcester. Details on Page Eight.

BIG LINERS IN TYPHOON

BATTLE WITH THE ELEMENTS

MOUNTAINOUS SEAS

The P. & O. liner Ranpura, and Dollar liner, President Jefferson, both showing signs of the battering they had received from the typhoon, arrived in Hongkong early this morning, roughly 24 hours late.

Both ships left the mouth of the Yangtze River at daybreak on Wednesday morning, and struck the full force of the typhoon that night.

Officers of the Ranpura, describing their experiences, said that the Ranpura left Shanghai on Tuesday night, but, owing to typhoon warnings from Zicawei, anchored in the Yangtze River until next morning.

A wide detour to the East, well off the ordinary course between Shanghai and Hongkong, was made to avoid the typhoon, but at 11 p.m. the wind reached gale force, and mountainous seas battered the ship mercilessly.

With engines going full speed ahead the ship barely made half speed, and she shook and quivered with each blow from the tons of water which constantly poured over fore peak and flooded the well deck. The nose of the ship was kept into the wind all day, and it was not until Thursday afternoon that the gale showed signs of abatement.

JEFFERSON BATTERED.

The black and white hull of the Dollar liner President Jefferson showed even more signs of the battering received at the hands of the gale.

Streaks of red rust showed where sea and rain had had their effect, and the ship showed many signs of her fight with the elements.

PASSENGERS ORDERED BELOW.

The President Jefferson left the mouth of the Yangtze River at practically the same time as the P. & O. liner, and ran into head winds of gale force just before midnight. The seas, coming over the port bow, continuously washed the decks of the ship, and Special class passengers were ordered below.

A feature of the typhoon was the fact that at no time were the barometers of the two ships extraordinarily low. The lowest recording on the President Jefferson was 29.45.

The N.Y.K. liner Kitano has, according to reports, also encountered the full force of the typhoon, and will not arrive here until to-night.

SOLDIER SENT TO PRISON

FOUR MONTHS FOR BURGLARY

Pleading guilty to a charge of burglary at a haberdashery shop at No. 53, Nathan Road at 1 a.m. today, Private Duncan Smith, of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, was sentenced to four months' hard labour before Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

Two additional counts, causing malicious damage and possession of an offensive weapon, were withdrawn against defendant as he pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary.

BUS CONDUCTOR TERRORISM

ACID-THROWING IN SHANGHAI STRIKE

(Our Own Correspondent).

Shanghai, Aug. 27.

The strike of Chinese bus conductors in Shanghai still continues and the terroristic activities of the strikers against the Russian conductors are still causing anxiety.

There were four acid-throwing incidents yesterday, but fortunately no-one was badly hurt and little damage was done.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney.

While we must all admit that there is a great thrill in the bidding and making of a slam—or even in correctly bidding for game—the real thrill of a bridge player still lies in the proper play of the cards.

This point was the topic of general discussion at the recent American Whist League tournament and many of the experts were of the opinion that the beginner at contract is devoting a little too much of his time to learning the bidding conventions and not enough to mastering the play of the hand.

The good card player never plays a card carelessly—he tries to make the play of his cards talk for him. The better you know and apply the language of cards, the better game you will have.

The Bidding.

South started the bidding with one no trump. West and North passed. East put in a lead-directing bid of two diamonds which South promptly doubled. At auction, after a bid of one no trump, a right-hand double is considered business while a left-hand double is informative. This is known as the right and left double.

The Play.

South's opening lead was the king of spades. What would you play from the North hand? You know that your partner would like to have you in the lead to lead trump through the declarer so your play would be the queen of spades on partner's king and now partner can safely lead a small spade. When dummy plays small North can win with the eight spot.

North now leads the ace of diamonds followed by the eight of diamonds. When East played the jack, South won with the king and cashed his good ace of spades.

He then led his king of clubs which East won with the ace and returned a club, South winning with the queen. South's next play was a small heart. When the 10 was played from dummy, North played the jack and East won with the king, and now you can see that North and South are bound to make two hearts and a diamond, and all that East, the declarer, made was four tricks, going down 400 and 30 honours for a minus 430 on the board.

CHINESE COMMITTED YESTERDAY FOR TRIAL.

Proceedings at the Kowloon Magistracy against Yip Kau, who is on an indictment of wounding Wong Hau with intent to murder him near Kowloon City on July 10, and alternately with maliciously wounding him, concluded yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Fraser committed the man to the next Criminal Sessions for trial.

Evidence was given by Mr. F. Mowfung during yesterday's proceedings, Mr. Mowfung testifying to hearing cries of "Save life" on the evening in question, and finding Wong Hau outside his house bleeding from wounds.

The French Premier, M. Edouard Herriot, and the British Home Secretary, Sir Herbert Samuel, are to meet in Jersey next Monday. Sir Herbert Samuel will accompany M. Herriot on a tour of the Channel Islands.

The meeting between the two Ministers has no political significance but follows a wish expressed by M. Herriot at Lausanne. He is writing a book on Victor Hugo and will visit Hauteville House, which was the novelist's home during his exile in Guernsey. —British Wireless.

SHORTLY AT THE QUEEN'S.*£300,000,000

ANNUAL DEMAND

IT HAS been reliably estimated that the annual demand for pulp, paper, and timber in the principal countries of the world, amounts to over £300,000,000 annually. Realising the vital importance of wood-pulp in world trade and the grave risk of a shortage of supplies, New Zealand Perpetual Forests, Ltd. have advanced on a progressive plan of afforestation. Out of this plan has arisen a long-term investment opportunity which bond capital to the extent of £3,500,000 has been quick to take advantage of.

With a conservative estimated yield of £250 in twelve years, the £30 bonds—payable by instalments—have attracted over 85,000 investors.

This is a condition (or disease) to which many men are given but few really understand. It is simply weakness—a break down as it were,
of the vital forces that sustain the system. No

the more prominent being sleeplessness, sense

GERMAN SUBJECT TO BE EXTRADITED

WANTED IN JAVA FOR AN ALLEGED THEFT

The case of David Diedrich Dohse, a German subject, who is wanted by the authorities of the Dutch East Indies on a charge of larceny of over 2,250 guilders' worth of diamonds from J. Groen, an Amsterdam diamond dealer, was again before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy, yesterday afternoon, and the extradition of the man was proceeded with.

Appearing for the Crown, Mr.
T. M. Hazlerigg said:
The fugitive was a jeweller who had a shop at Sockaboemi in Java, and the complainant, named J.
Groen, was a dealer in jewellery.
On the 17th. July of last year, the complainant, as I will call him, had a conversation with the fugitive as a result of which he took on the following day, the 18th July, certain jewellery to the fugitive's house. He there made a cash sale of certain jewellery for 500 guilders, which does not really concern this present charge.
At the same time he handed over to the fugitive jewellery to the value of 2,252 guilders, and that is the jewellery which is the subject matter of the charge which your Worship has now here.

Fugitive Disappears.

The jewellery in question to the extent of 2,252 guilders, was handed over to the fugitive for sale on commission. The terms arranged were that after the jewellery was sold the fugitive was either to pay all the money to the factory agent at Sockaboemi or to send it to Groen by postal order. A few days after the transaction, according to the depositions, the complainant met the fugitive. He saw him at his shop, and the fugitive represented that certain of the jewellery had been sold, and that he would arrange payment for it. That payment was never made.

Some time later, it will be shown by the evidence that it was a month afterwards, the complainant Groen found the fugitive's shop at Sockaboemi had been closed. The position was that the fugitive had left Sockaboemi and left his shop. He left his shop without making arrangements for the conduct of his affairs, and it transpires also that he left Java altogether. At no time before he left Sockaboemi did the fugitive pay any of the money that he should have paid on account of that jewellery.

The complainant made his first statement on the 26th of August, 1931. That was his sworn statement, eleven months before the arrest of the fugitive in Hongkong. The nature of the transaction seems to have been quite clear, that this jewellery was handed over to the fugitive for a specific purpose, that is to sell it

CANTON &amp; NANKING

If it be true, as is suggested by a prominent Nanking journal, that fresh intrigues are brewing in the South, having as their ultimate aim the setting up of an independent Government, the move can only be described as most regrettable. At no time in China's history has there been greater need than now for the nation to present a united front. The indications are that we are approaching a crisis in Far Eastern affairs which may, in its gravity and in its widespread repercussions, outweigh any of the past twenty years. Sino-Japanese feeling, so far from becoming more composed, appears to be drifting into dangerous channels, and, in view of the possibility of a fresh upheaval, nothing can be more fatal to China's best interests than anything in the nature of revived internal dissension. That fact alone should suffice to convince Chinese leaders of all schools of thought of the danger of renewed discord between Nanking and Canton.

It is common knowledge, that many of the erstwhile Nanking officials now in the South are by no manner of means satisfied with the Central Government's outlook. Amongst these are those who consider that Nanking's foreign policy, especially in relation to Japan, is lacking in forcefulness, and others who will never be satisfied until Chiang Kai-shek is ousted. But they do not all belong to the same schools of political thought, and, despite their having one common ground in their opposition to Nanking, they might not find it easy to unite in any independence movement. None the less, it is quite conceivable that some of the presently unemployed politicians would be prepared to lend a hand in the setting up of another anti-Nanking Government in the South. In support of the allegations of intrigue, it is asserted from Nanking that the Cantonese troops, despite urgent requests, have declined to move further North in the war against the Communists. As against this, we have recent reports that Chan Chai-tong's forces have been co-operating with the Chiang Kai-shek armies in Northern Kwangtung against the Reds, coupled with news that the work of suppression has been so effectual that there is no call for the Cantonese forces to go further afield. In addition, there is the further point that Chan Chai-tong may have knowledge of plans for fresh trouble in Canton, and for this reason may wish to keep his troops within the province. So far as the outside observer can see, there is no doubt of Chan Chai-tong's loyalty to the Central Government, in which connexion it must be remembered that he has a big military backing, the only uncertain elements being in naval and air force circles. Hongkong Chinese opinion appears to be that Chan Chai-tong would have nothing to do with any separatist movement. That attitude, if well founded, is all to his credit.

No-one will claim that the Nanking Government has been all that it might be. At the same time, it has to be kept in mind that it holds office in a time of extreme difficulty, and, moreover, that it has been constantly handicapped by the frequent changes in its personnel. Much of its energies have, in fact, been dissipated in attempting to patch up squabbles between the various cliques—squabbles which reflect a failure on the part of the participants to put first things first. This is all the more regrettable when we consider that the spirit of unity amongst the people has probably been never greater than at the present time. The Sino-Japanese crisis has welded North and South together as never before. The tragedy of the situation is that the politicians should continue their bickerings in spite of the call of the time for unity of thought and action.

Soviet Social Conditions.

The Russian experiment continues to attract interested observers. An interesting account has just come to hand, by Mrs. Alice W. Field, of Soviet social legislation and of the institutions which have been set up by the Soviet for the protection of motherhood and childhood. The writer cites from Soviet publications on these subjects and contributes her own observations of such institutions in Moscow. Such subjects as the work of the Institute for the Protection of Motherhood and Childhood, the Soviet marriage and divorce laws, and Russian methods of nursery management are discussed in some detail. Mrs. Field is distinctly in sympathy with the Soviet social welfare programme, and does full justice to the elements in Soviet law and practice which make for equality of opportunity as between women and men, for the training of children, for the overcoming of the vast Russian inheritance of lethargy, backwardness and neglect. In welfare and education, as in other aspects of Soviet life, there are so many ambitious projects that the casual visitor to Russia, swamped with a round of visits, interviews and printed material, is so impressed by the substantial progress made that the limitations imposed by Soviet conditions are sometimes lost from view. Mrs. Field does not altogether escape this tendency. One does not gather from her book how many features of Russian life still make the lot of the working woman hard—the necessity, for instance, of sometimes standing for hours in queues, the crowding on tram-cars, the absence of a hundred labour-saving conveniences which are almost taken for granted in Europe and America.

ANIMALS &amp; SUICIDE

AN OLD THEORY REVIVED

Do animals commit suicide? This old question has been raised in a new form following the remarkable case which took place at Upton Zoo, Chester.

It was stated by witnesses that one of the zoo monkeys deliberately gnawed off six feet of rope which was hanging in his open air cage, climbed a tree with it, and secured one end to a bough. At the other end he made a slip-knot, through which he passed his head. He then pulled the knot tight and dropped off. Death was instantaneous. It was stated by those who saw the occurrence that it was a deliberate suicide.

Naturalists were unwilling to accept the theory of suicide without more substantial proof. Professor E. W. MacBride, the eminent biologist, said to a Press representative: "In the absence of scientific proof, I should decline absolutely to believe that it was a case of suicide. There has never yet been a scientifically proved case of suicide in all nature."

"The story that scorpions would in certain circumstances take their own lives was demolished many years ago. It is entirely without foundation. On the other hand, there have been cases where swarms of rats have been known to dash into the sea, all of them being drowned. In South Africa antelopes have done the same thing. This, however, has been attributed to an ancestral instinct to follow where others have gone, the lapse of time having brought up the sea where once there was dry land."

There are also many other tales of attempted suicide in animals, but not one has ever been scientifically proved, and I believe none of them.

"I had the most horrible dream! I was walking right out in the street with nothing on but my pyjamas."

SPORTING "OPEL" MODEL IN SHANGHAI.

Model 61 Opel Special Roadster-6-cylinder-1.8 Liter-at the South University, Shanghai.

DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

Running a Car on Worn Tyres.

There have been several instances in England recently where motorists have come into conflict with the traffic police owing to the tyres in use being deemed unsafe under the regulations of the Road Traffic Act, which makes it a punishable offence to drive motor vehicles with tyres in a worn-out condition.

The contentious point appears to be: When does a worn tyre become defective and a source of danger? A motor cover that has the tread pattern worn off and the traction area of tyre quite smooth may be quite safe under certain road conditions, but on wet roads such tyres may be conducive to skids, particularly if brakes are suddenly applied.

Covers with smooth treads on the back wheels are at all times wasteful, inasmuch as there is considerable wheelspin, owing to lack of road grip, with consequent waste of power and petrol. Covers that are so worn that several plies of the cord casings are cut through are approaching the danger mark, because they are likely to blow out when put under any undue stress.

Covers in such a condition are a definite risk, particularly on hilly roads or when cornering at speed. Under no circumstances should tyres that obviously are nearly worn through be used on the front wheels of a motor vehicle that may be driven at even a fast touring pace. If they must be used, then it is better to reduce the risk by fitting such covers on the back wheels, and high speed should be avoided.

Tyres are now so low priced that it is really false economy for any owner of a motor vehicle to try and get the last few miles out of tyres that are not fit and safe for further use. A wrecked car, with possible harm to occupants, is a heavy penalty to risk just for the sake of obtaining extra miles, which, after all, only represent a few pence, based on the modest outlay that nowadays will purchase even the highest grade tyres.

CONVERTIBLE TOPS.

Buick Models on Show in Shanghai.

EVOLUTION FROM SPORTS CAR

"Convertible top conscious" was the phrase used by Mr. Bruce J. Miles, managing director of general Motors for the Far East in explaining the increasing popularity of the summer Buick and Chevrolet convertible top model.

Mr. Miles stated that only a few years ago the sport touring model was all the rage. Top down during summer weather, its sporty appearance made a wide appeal, he said.

However, during inclement weather this model proved decidedly disadvantageous, and the closed sedan model soon came into demand. Later the motoring public demanded something combining the two, a closed car for rough weather driving and an open car for sunny days. People felt that to go back to the old touring model of ten years ago was like going back to horse and buggy. The final result was the convertible model touring-sedan, which by a few simple adjustments can be made to meet the demands of the motorist for a closed car or an open car, with all the conveniences and comforts of both.

Buick convertible models on display at Anderson-Ferragino's, local Buick distributors, offer an unusually large selection of this model, stated Mr. Miles. The convertible model incorporates all of the G. M. C. mechanical refinements, including silent synchromesh transmission, adjustable front seat and other features which the public demands in a modern car.

STRENUOUS TESTS ON BUICK CARS.

Buick has been delving into its engineering records to find just how many miles the straight 8 models were driven before they went into production. This research disclosed four and a quarter million miles—177 times around the world, or the ordinary yearly driving of 42,450 car owners. Each major unit was driven distances running into six figures before it was accepted, and then the assembled cars containing these units were tested for further hundreds of thousands of miles, the exact total being 4,245,103 miles. The synchromesh transmission was driven 497,281 before it got the "okay" and the engine 392,231 miles.

PROPELLOR DRIVEN CAR.

E. C. Jurgens and his airdrive car, which he says will do 30 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Detroit, July 29. Perhaps you'll be driving around in the future in a car featuring a propeller drive. E. C. Jurgens, Detroit inventor, succeeds in marketing his new car, said to be the first propeller-driven automobile to receive a licence plate.

Jurgens has constructed an experimental model, weighing 1500 pounds, compared to the weight of from 3000 to 4000 pounds of the average automobile, and powered by an aeroplane motor weighing only 275 pounds.

There is no clutch, transmission, differential, universal joint, or similar parts that add to the weight of the car, and, due to this decreased weight, Jurgens believes his car will make 300 miles to a gallon of gasoline, and attain a speed of 80 miles an hour.

A propeller in front of the car, screened in for protection, controls the speed of the car, the more gas fed more revolutions the propeller makes and the more speed the car reaches.

In a demonstration, the ease with which the car can be handled is revealed. The driver opens the throttle and, as the speed of the four-bladed propeller reaches 200 revolutions a minute, the car starts forward. Four "doughnut" tyres and a wheelbase of 132 inches add to the comfort of driving.

Jurgens is working on another airdrive car, which, he says, will weigh only 900 pounds, have less noise than his present model, feature a reversible propeller, and get more miles from a gallon of gasoline.

SHOCK ABSORBER ON DASHBOARD.

Andre Hydro-Telecontrol Instrument.

ACTION OF DEVICE VERY QUICK.

Although the compromise represented by long semi-elliptic springs damped by shock absorbers which can be adjusted at intervals will continue to satisfy a very considerable number of motorists, the suspension problem remains serious to those who are really critical of the performance of their cars.

There are two regulators (and corresponding pressure gauges), one connected to the front pair of shock absorbers while the other controls the rear pair. Turning the regulator has the effect of compressing a metal bellows, so forcing fluid through piping to rubber expanders in the shock absorbers. These expanders apply a load to shoes pivoted on silentbloc clutches and faced with the special material which has for so long been used for the discs of Andre shock absorbers.

The action of the device is very quick, it being possible to vary the pressure by about 60 lb. at a time simply by giving half a turn to the regulator. Furthermore, the damping is truly progressive, and the amount applied is at once discernible from the gauge. Leakage is prevented by the blind ends of the system, there being no glands to give trouble.

We have found that the front pair of shock absorbers do not require much attention, a pressure of 50 lb. per sq. in. being about right for most normal conditions. On the other hand, for a very fast run on a winding road the steering can be improved by increasing this load to about 100 lb.

A Valuable Adjustment For Stability.

The control of the rear pair of shock absorbers is exceedingly valuable, enabling much better results to be obtained than were previously possible. For example, the riding of this car, with ordinary shock absorbers set to give reasonable stability at speed, was previously decidedly harsh at low speeds on rough surfaces. With the Andre system one can reduce the pressure on the rear shock absorbers to about 50 lb. for low speed work, when the car is lightly loaded, so deriving full benefit from the flexibility of the springs. For light loads at moderate speeds up to 40 m. p. h. 1000 lb. is about right.

When the back of the car is laden the pressure on the rear shock absorbers can usefully be increased by about 50 lb. and for a really fast run under such conditions we have used a pressure of 200 lb. per sq. in. with excellent results. The difference in stability on corners which can be produced by a turn of the regulator is really quite amazing.

These shock absorbers can be purchased in pairs, complete with a hand regulator and the necessary piping, the question of whether it is desirable to apply them to the rear axle only, or to both axles, really depending upon the springing of the car in question. Broadly speaking, the stiffer the front springs the less necessary do readily adjustable front shock absorbers become. It is also possible, if desired, to couple four shock absorbers to one regulator, although in most cases it is preferable to be able to adjust the front and rear pairs independently. The hydraulic principle naturally ensures perfect balance between each pair, and enables the setting to be shown on a gauge.

Summing up, this system is one which should have a great appeal to anyone critical of car performance, especially if his car be used under a considerable variety of speed, load and road conditions. To be able to convert the springing from limousine to sport-car standards in a few seconds adds a new dimension to motoring.

THE "STRAW HAT" CAR.

Heat Resisting Body Made of Wicker.

For many years residents of the Madeira Island and tourists have complained of the discomfort of motoring there during the hot summer months. The steel bodies and leather seats of the modern automobiles absorb the heat of the sun and make riding anything but but enjoyable.

One enterprising automobile manufacturer has conceived the idea of making what he calls a "straw hat" automobile, a motor car with a heat-resisting body of wicker, through which the breezes can blow as the car rolls over the road.

Even the mudguards and wheels of the car are fashioned of wicker and the seat is covered with a porous material made of tough grass. On the hottest days the machine is pleasantly cool to ride in.

MORRIS BUS GIVES REMARKABLE PERFORMANCE AT CANTON

Messrs. Dodwell & Co., Ltd., Sole Distributors for Hongkong and South China of Morris Cars, Trucks and Buses, have Received the Following Certified Statement from the Kwang Chow Bus Company, Canton:—

On August 3rd, 1932, an official test was carried out on my Morris Commercial 2 ton Motor Bus by a representative of the Motor Dept. of Messrs. Dodwell and Co., Ltd.

The bus was driven all day from 7.0 A.M.—10.0 P.M. under normal working conditions, i.e. all recognised stopping places were observed and in addition, the bus was stopped whenever a passenger wished to alight or fresh passengers to join.

The total distance covered in the day was 131 miles and this figure was accomplished on exactly 2 (two) tins of gasoline (10 American gallons), thus giving an average of 13.1 working miles per gallon. Previous to the foregoing, another official test was performed on my bus to ascertain the actual distance which could be covered without stopping on one (1) American gallon of gasoline.

I attended this latter test in person and was shown and convinced that the distance which could be covered is 16.68 miles.

I certify that the above figures are correct.

BEAUTIFUL HIGHWAYS IN U.S.A.

Above is shown a section of a Michigan highway near Munising bay illustrating how trees have been cut down on bends of scenic roads to open up vistas of water, trees and hills to motorists. Low photo shows tree planting and landscaping on a city boulevard.

Lansing, Mich., July 29. Michigan roads are "going back to nature," and, consequently, that state now possesses some of the most beautiful highways in the country.

The reason for this is that engineers, foresters and landscapers are co-operating in road construction in an endeavour to make over ugly gashes and piles of earth left in Mother Nature's ensemble after construction crews have finished their jobs.

In Michigan's road construction plan, the highway engineer stands shoulder-to-shoulder with the landscape architect. After the former is finished, the latter comes along and replants trees, bushes, shrubs and flowers, not in straight rows like city tree planting, but in as natural a grouping as possible.

Work From Photographs

In some cases the landscape crew goes ahead of the construction gangs, photographing and sketching the beauty spots. After this is done it is comparatively simple to replant the mutilated area almost as natural as it was before.

According to Phelps Vogelsang, state forester, Michigan is divided into 10 residences, and each one has a resident forester or resident landscaper. These men work directly under supervision of the state forester at Lansing.

Each resident forester has from seven to 14 counties under his charge and in each county he has developed at least one crew of eight or 10 men who devote their entire time to roadside development work. The duties of these crews consist of general maintenance of trees, shrubs, planting, development of roadside springs, maintenance of roadside parks, and other work.

"Practically all the roadside work is done through our maintenance organization to which these crews belong," Vogelsang informs. "Our work is financed both through maintenance and construction."

"Each year we budget on our maintenance projects certain amounts to be placed on each section of road to cover the care of trees, shrubs, parks and so forth."

Route Studied Beforehand. "Whenever a new road is to be built the resident forester inspects the new location and prepares estimates on the cost of all roadside work to be done on that project. Such estimates include preservation of trees, the moving of desirable trees so that they will not be destroyed during construction, the complete planting of all barren areas, development of roadside springs, sodding and planting of barren slopes, and grading work in connexion with any of these items.

"In addition to this work, our resident foresters have charge and supervise the placing of public utility lines within highway limits, as well as the removal of roadside advertising signs."

Before any road is built, the chief engineer of plans and design, who is also a landscape architect, work with the chief forester on location and general design so as to insure that state highways will be built with beauty as an important factor.

State Buys Forest Land

To insure highway beauty through timbered areas in the state, the State Administrative Board annually appropriates $50,000 for the purchase of 400-foot right of ways. In the last three years more than 2165 acres of timber along highways have been purchased from this fund.

It's surprising how much can be done toward road beautification with a comparatively small amount of money.

According to Vogelsang, the department plans to spend about $108,828 in construction planting and maintenance, planting. This amount of money will plant 25,240 trees, 57,650 shrubs, 363,700 ever-greens, and will also finance trimming, transplanting, weeding and grading.

GAS AND MILEAGE.

Useful Hints.

By James F. Donahue.

Although it's hard to believe, the way you sit while driving your car has a lot to do with gasoline mileage you get out of it.

The driver's position is as important for his comfort as it is for the economical performance of the car.

In the case of motoring, its "sitting" rather than the "stance" of golf that is the by-word.

Some drivers have the habit of shifting constantly from throttle to brake pedal and back. This is especially true in traffic.

This practice leaves no room for ease and comfort at the wheel, for the driver mentally is always on the alert and physically is adding a strain on himself.

The reason for his doing this, most likely, lies in the fact that too much gas is flowing through the carburetor while the engine is supposed to idle with the foot throttle in closed position. The result is that the car keeps moving forward faster than the traffic allows, and so the brake has to be applied constantly to check it.

The remedy lies in adjusting the stop screw at the carburetor, where

1,206,836 CARS IN CANADA.

Canada now has a total registration of 1,206,836 cars, the average being 8.6 persons for motor vehicle.

This is a smaller average population per car than that of any country except the United States, with 4.6 persons per car, and New Zealand and Hawaii, both with 7 persons.

It regulates the position of the throttle when it is supposed to be closed. Turning the screw back a little will permit less gas to be fed through the carburetor and so keep the engine idling more slowly.

As a result, the driver will be relieved of the strain of working both brake and throttle in traffic to such an extent. He will find driving more restful. And he will get more mileage.

Another contribution to discomfort in driving is the opposite to riding the clutch. So much has been said about this that many drivers do exactly the reverse and find their left foot jumping back and forth, when in heavy traffic.

Riding the clutch is harmful if enough weight of the foot is put on the pedal to cause the discs to slip. But heavy traffic, where there is much stopping and starting, would sap the energy of anyone trying to obey this warning.

In a case like this it is enough to allow the foot to rest lightly on the clutch pedal, so that pressing down on it and letting go up to the point of releasing the discs entirely would still leave the foot in ready position.

This relieves the driver of quite a strain. It prepares him for quicker emergencies. And it permits him to keep up close to the fellow in front without too much danger.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM OF KING CHARLES.

Coaches Forbidden to Park in the Streets.

The traffic problem is no new puzzle to civilisation. It existed as far back as 1660, as shown in an order issued in that year by King Charles II of England. It read:

"Whereas the excessive number of hackney coaches in the City of London are found to be a common nuisance, the streets and highways being thereby made impassable and dangerous:

"We command that no person or persons permit or suffer said coaches to stand or remain in any of the streets."

There was a decrease approaching 50 per cent. in the value of motor vehicles imported into New Zealand during the first three months of this year, compared with the total for the same period in 1931.

THE STREET OF 1,000 WHEELS.

The Romance of the Used Car Trade.

SALESMAN ASSISTS ELOPING PAIR.

What a pity that our Western civilisation does not borrow or copy the picturesque customs of the East!

"Great Portland Street." Such is the name by which England's greatest motor market is known. It commemorates a noble family, but it tells nothing of the romance of the street. Not a hint of the stories that lie behind the facades of the showrooms that line its pavements.

In the East it would be named differently. "The Street of a Thousand Wheels" might be its more suggestive title.

It was in the last century that the first hint of the trade that would be coming to it was given.

An author who was destined to be well known during his life was born in a hansom cab in that thoroughfare. If things like that could occur in such vehicles it was obvious that their doom was fore-shadowed, and it was Great Portland Street that helped to oust them. Poetic justice was satisfied.

The soft-speaking salesman of the street can tell you strange tales of events that have happened since those far-off days.

Trade was slack one quiet afternoon when a young man, accompanied by a pretty girl, walked into one of the second-hand departments of a firm.

"I want a fast, reliable car," he told the salesman without wasting his words.

Quickly he made his choice and paid cash for the already licensed vehicle. It was filled up with petrol and oil, and the young couple tossed a suitcase into the back, climbed in and streaked away.

The sale was a queer one. It left the seller wondering. His suspicions were fulfilled within half an hour. The young couple were eloping, but their plans had leaked out.

The girl's father came down the street. "Have you seen a young girl and a man who wanted to buy a car?" he was asking all and sundry.

The salesman admitted having seen them and selling them a car. Whereupon, to the man's great surprise and pleasure, the father demanded another car with which to take up the chase. He was quickly sold one; but the salesman was young—and he was in love. The car he sold father was a slower one.

In the back corners of the store-rooms and garages in the street, covered only by layer on layer of dust, are often to be found the "mystery" cars.

Some of them are years old, their tyres flat and bulging out each side of the wheel rims, doors hanging loosely on their hinges and upholstery that splits at a touch.

Once they belonged to somebody. Now they are members of the Legion of Lost Cars.

Left years ago, their owners have never claimed them. In many cases they were good vehicles, yet for some mysterious reason they have been deserted. Every motor dealer can tell of their weird cases; none can explain them.

No Market for Stolen Cars.

It has been suggested that they have been taken by smash-and-grab thieves, yet if that is the case, why does not the original owner notify the police, who could trace the car? And why should a Rolls-Royce, of all makes, be left to rot away through disuse?

In previous days Great Portland Street was often troubled by car thieves. Unknowingly, cars that had been stolen were often bought by the dealers, who were faced with a double loss when the police arrived. This is all changed now, and a thief would have great difficulty in making a sale. The number of the car is noted and compared with a list that the police circulate which embodies a description of all missing cars.

Pedestrians of a certain class cause much trouble in the Street.

It is surprising how the prospect of a free car ride seems to lure them. There are men who are continually getting such rides on the pretext that they are thinking of buying a car.

One man, now too well known by the dealers to be able to carry his game off any more, used to impress by his fashionable dress and attitude of opulence. He would say that he wanted to buy a really good car. He had, of course, come over from the Colonies or America, and money was no object. The best was what he needed.

With a prospect of such a good sale the assistant would do everything to obtain the man's favour, and would readily assent to the suggestion of a trial run.

A day would be fixed and the man would arrive, in one case with three companies, and a long ride in the country would follow. The hill on which the prospective buyer wanted to see the car perform was always a long way out.

Very pleased, the man would arrange to come in on the morrow and conclude the sale. So far as he was concerned the sale was concluded; or, rather, had never begun. A little later his activities would be heard of at another dealer's in the Street.

With the exception of Hatton Garden, there is probably not another street in London that carries such a quantity of valuable stock. It is estimated that one firm alone carries close on £200,000 worth of stock, while the total value of the cars stocked by all the dealers must exceed several million pounds. Yet in spite of these large figures a man can walk to Great Portland Street with £10 in his pocket and ride away in his own car, fully paid for.

Summer, alleged or otherwise, always sees the Street at its busiest.

New cars, second-hand cars, third-hand cars and those of the nondescript variety all attract the men and women who dream of the country and long to find that winding lane that will lead them from the world of their working hours.

Men have fallen, and will continue to fall, under this spell. Money saved to buy a vacuum cleaner for the wife will be spent in Great Portland Street on some amazing bargain, and another four wheels will turn their way out of "The Street of a Thousand Wheels."

SUSPENDED ANIMATION!

Driving an auto through the air across a river may sound incredible, but take a look at this motorized suspension bridge over the Pudding river, near Canby, Ore. Two cables, each 120 feet long, furnish the roadbed; tyres are replaced by rubber bands around the rim to give traction; and a third cable above with a pulley gives the car stability. C. W. West, at the wheel, is kept busy carrying passengers back and forth. He claims 1500 trip on a gallon of gas.

JAPAN'S POLICY

AMERICAN REACTION TO UCHIDA SPEECH

New York, Aug. 26. The United States answer to Japan's decision to recognize Manchukuo will, according to the daily well-informed correspondent of the Herald Tribune, be the 6 of American influence to maintain the diplomatic ostracism which the correspondent thinks is hastened by the rest of the world.

Count Uchida's speech is regarded in Washington as intended primarily for the League's consideration and to focus attention on the Lytton report.

Administration circles have already made it clear that Japan's recognition of Manchukuo will be regarded as a violation of the Nine Power Treaty, but an official statement is given that neither President Hoover nor Mr. Stimson will reply to Count Uchida, nor will any statement concerning Manchukuo be made before the League has decided what action shall be taken upon the Lytton report.

"Deliberate Defiance."

London, Aug. 26. The Conservative press to-day makes no comment on Count Uchida's speech, and the Liberal and Labour press opinion is reflected in the News Chronicle and Daily Herald which interpret the speech as presaging dangerous possibilities.

The News Chronicle sees the possibility of renewed conflict in the Far East and cites the reported Japanese reinforcements at Shanghai as a reason for grave disquietude. It says that Count Uchida's intervention before the publication of the Lytton report is neither wise nor well considered and observes that Japan cannot expect the other Powers to accept her unilateral assertion that the Kellogg Pact and other treaties have not been prejudiced by her proceedings in Manchuria.

The Daily Herald in a leading article headed "Japan's Puppet," says a force, but holding all the possibilities of a world tragedy is being played out in the Far East and adds that Japan's recognition of Manchukuo is the latest step of deliberate defiance to the moral sense of the world, which will bring war clouds rolling up in the sky.

"To Ignore Lytton."

"Manchukuo for Manchukuo" is the heading of a column leading article in the Manchester Guardian, which writes that as far as Japan is concerned, the recognition of Manchukuo implies a deliberate intention to ignore the Lytton recommendations and should force the other League Powers to admit once for all that the situation in Manchuria has been brought about by means incompatible with Japan's international obligations.

In accordance with Mr. Stimson's doctrine of non-recognition, this will involve the Powers refusing, under any circumstances, to enter into relations with Manchukuo.

Japanese bonds rallied on the recovery of the yen to-day.

Sub Judge.

London, Aug. 26. The opinion in London whether the Japanese recognition of Manchukuo will infringe the Nine Power Pact varies. One quarter is of the opinion that if in the course of time Manchukuo is generally accepted as a de facto government, recognition by the western powers would probably follow. In that event, the invocation of the Nine Power Pact would be manifestly impossible.

Another view holds that the Japanese recognition of Manchukuo would certainly constitute an infringement of the Pact and the Conference signatories would be summoned to decide the steps against the delinquent.—Reuter.

Japan Upbraided.

Tokyo, Aug. 26. Interest has been aroused by the interpellations in Count Uchida's speech by Mr. Kaku Mochi, Chief Secretary in the Inukai cabinet, who is one of the most active and influential leaders of the Seiyukai party. While approving of the recognition of Manchukuo, Mr. Mori upbraided the Government for apparently considering only the legal aspects, without appreciating the political significance and possible serious consequences of Japan's action.

Asking if the Government had thought out what to do if recognizing the Manchukuo resulted in a head on collision with the Powers or China, Mr. Mori asserted that Japan's decision to take the initiative in recognizing Manchukuo, despite America's and the League's known disapproval, was equivalent to initiating a "back to Asia" policy, thereby reversing the 60-year-old policy of following sheep like the lead of western nations.

Replying Count Uchida said he was unable to reveal the nature or extent of the precautions taken against the eventuality, but emphasized the conviction that the world would come to understand and appreciate the Japanese action.—Reuter's Special.

DIVORCE LAW FOR HONGKONG

that his or her marriage may be declared null and void.

Such decree may be made on any of the following grounds:— (a) that the respondent was impotent at the time of the marriage and at the time of the institution of the suit; (b) that the parties are within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity or affinity, whether natural or legal; (c) that either party was a lunatic or idiot at the time of the marriage; (d) that the former husband or wife of either party was living at the time of the marriage and the marriage with such former husband or wife was then in force; (e) that the consent of either party to the marriage was obtained by force or fraud in any case in which the marriage might be annulled on this ground by the law of England; (f) that the marriage is invalid by the law of the Colony.

If the court finds that the petitioner's case has been proved, it shall pronounce a decree nisi declaring the marriage to be null and void.

DECREE ABSOLUTE.

A decree nisi for dissolution of marriage or for nullity of marriage may be made absolute after the expiration of such time, not less than three months for the pronouncing thereof, as is prescribed or as is fixed by the court in any suit.

JUDICIAL SEPARATION.

A husband or wife may present a petition to the court for a judicial separation on the ground of adultery or cruelty or desertion without reasonable excuse for two years or upwards.

RESTITUTION OF CONJUGAL RIGHTS.

When either the husband or the wife has without reasonable excuse withdrawn from the society of the other, either wife or husband may apply by petition to the court for restitution of conjugal rights.

DAMAGES AND COSTS.

Any husband may, either in a petition for dissolution of marriage or for judicial separation or in a petition to the court limited to such object only, claim damages from any person on the ground of his having committed adultery with the wife of such petitioner.

COSTS AGAINST CO-RESPONDENT.

Whenever in any petition presented by a husband the alleged adulterer has been made a co-respondent and the adultery has been established, the court may order the co-respondent to pay the whole or any part of the costs of the proceedings.

The co-respondent shall not be ordered to pay the petitioner's costs, (a) if the respondent was at the time of the adultery living apart from her husband and leading the life of a prostitute; or (b) if the co-respondent had not at the time of the adultery reason to believe the respondent to be a married woman.

ALIMONY.

(1) In any suit under the Ordinance, whether it is instituted by a husband or a wife, the wife may present a petition for alimony pending the suit.

Alimony pending the suit shall in no case exceed one-fifth of the husband's average net income for the three years next preceding the date of the order, and shall continue, in case of a decree for dissolution of marriage, until the decree is made absolute.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES.

When Frederick Lonsdale wrote "Lovers Courageous" as a starring vehicle for the talents of Robert Montgomery, the noted English playwright gave the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer technicians something to scratch their heads about. For the new Montgomery picture, which will be seen at the Queen's Theatre tomorrow, contains a wide variety of locales, principally English but quite unfamiliar to the average Hollywood eye. There are scenes on Liverpool quays, at a Canadian rodeo, at Southampton docks, in British South Africa at an English fox hunt, on tramp steamers and in rural English parks, lodgings, meat stores and pawn shops.

Since London fog and rain play so large a part in the usual weather of the British metropolis, the use of "canned fog" vaporized glycerine—and "silent rain"—finely sprayed moisture, was employed in many of the scenes. For the romantic episodes on the lake a location was picked at Sunningdale, California, a charming sylvan spot nestled in a wooded glen and said to be strikingly similar to rural locales in England. The fox hunt scenes were staged upon a lavish scale with the regular complement of horses, hounds and cockney grooms. With the exception of Montgomery and Marge Evans, his leading lady, all the members of the cast were apparently British, including even the extras. In costuming the players, tweeds were used to maintain the English atmosphere and a number of charming ensembles of this material were designed by Gilbert Adrian for Miss Evans.

Included in the imposing cast of the picture are Roland Young, Frederick Kerr, Gerald Owen, Percy Mercer, Evelyn Hall, Halliwell Hobbes, Jackie Seidl, Norman Phillips, Jr., and Alan Nowbray.

"Tell England."

After a long and arduous search among the young talent of England for a suitable actor to portray the important part of one of the two officers round whom the story of "Tell England" turns, Anthony Asquith finally discovered Tony Bruce. A sub-lieutenant in the Navy, who was undergoing a temporary course at Wall Island, Bruce, who had always an inclination towards acting, immediately resigned when the part was offered to him as the result of a successful test.

Born near Dundee, Bruce is twenty-one years old. It is interesting to know that the memorable scenes in "Tell England," which recall the great part played in the Gallipoli campaign by the Navy and in which Bruce took part in the film were familiar to him, for he served with the Mediterranean Fleet as a "snotty" aboard H.M.S. Elizabeth during the bombardment and landing on the peninsula.

Bruce appears in "Tell England" as a young public schoolboy who joins up with his friend and is sent out to the Dardanelles with the famous 29th Division. Under fire, his friend loses his nerve, while the other, temporarily in command, "carries on." He leads a successful attack in which his friend is killed, and on the evacuation of Gallipoli, sees that the epitaph they had considered together is carved on the cross that marks the grave.

Bruce has since played with great success in "The Whistler," which was directed by John Orton.

"Tell England," Britain's mighty epic of Gallipoli, is now being shown at the Queen's Theatre.

"The Outsider"

Shakespeare was right when he said "the whirligig of time brings its revenge for 'The Outsider'." The film version of Dorothy Brandon's international stage success which Metro-Goldwyn-Blair will present to the King's Theatre on Sunday, gives an outstanding proof of the truth of this statement.

Joan Barry, who plays the role of Lalage, made her debut in talking pictures by being heard but not seen, when she supplied the voice for Anny Ondra in Alfred Hitchcock's "Blackmail," and now, in her first big talkie role, in one portion of it she is seen but not heard. The sequence in which this happens is the one where the heroine sits up in bed and sees pitifully. The emotional effect of Joan Barry's acting was heightened by the soft music of Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata which accompanies the scene—one of the cleverest uses to which music has been put since sound was introduced.

"Shadow of the Law"

If you're of the ten million people who found the ultimate in thrills in William Powell's portrayal in "Street of Chance," you've still to experience the greatest of the Powell characterizations. It's for you "Shadow of the Law" is now showing at the Oriental Theatre.

"Shadow of the Law" is a new type of picture for Powell. This role gives him none of the sophisticated superiority of the Philo Vance portrayals. Nor yet does it impose a sinister glow. The Powell of "Shadow of the Law" is a quiet-living engineer drawn into a web of circumstances which land him in prison. The story is packed with drama, excitement, unusual and novel scenes, enthralling human characterizations, really great acting and solid entertainment.

"To-night or Never"

Long rehearsals, usually necessary before a talking picture goes into production, were dispensed with almost entirely in the case of "To-night or Never," the Samuel Goldwyn production for United Artists, which comes again to the Central Theatre to-day. This was possible only because most of the members of the cast, with the exception of Gloria Swanson, the star, had already played their roles in the New York stage production of this romantic comedy which was the

CHAMPIONS AGAIN!

Yorks Finish Strongly in Keen Race

LEYLAND'S AMAZING INNINGS

Phenomenal Batting Achievements

London, Aug. 26.

YORKSHIRE are again county cricket champions.

They clinched the issue, which, thanks to the sturdy challenge of Sussex has been in doubt until the final matches of the programme, by defeating Hampshire at Bournemouth, and in so doing earned the just reward of brilliant consistency in all-round cricket.

The latest cricket produced some startling batting achievements. Huge scores were made and centuries were as cheap as grapes in Australia.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Middlesex (573) beat Leicester (479-6 dec. & 54-1) on 1st innings at Lord's.
Derbyshire (374) beat Somerset (244 & 326-8) on 1st innings at Taunton.
Glamorgan (502) beat Notts (386 & 165-5) on 1st innings at Cardiff.
Warwick (353 & 154-3) beat Worcester (231 & 399) on 1st innings at Worcester.
Surrey (384 & 205-5 dec.) beat Northants (328 & 232-6) on 1st innings at the Oval.
Gloucester (514) beat Lancashire (248 & 157-7) on 1st innings at Liverpool.
Yorkshire (307 & 199-5 dec.) beat Hampshire (174 & 160) by 172 runs at Bournemouth.
Sussex (326) beat Essex (321 & 76-2) on 1st innings at Eastbourne.

FRIENDLY MATCH.

Kent (295 & 154) beat All India (270 & 121) by 58 runs at Canterbury.

BATSMEN ON TOP

MANY BRILLIANT INNINGS

TWO DOUBLE CENTURIES

Two double centuries and fourteen individual hundreds were recorded in three days of record breaking cricket. Phenomenal totals were reached, as a result of which only one match in the county programme reached a definite finish, this being Yorkshire's defeat of Hampshire. This match was featured, not only by Sutcliffe scoring his eleventh three-figure innings of the season, but by Leyland's remarkable batting when Yorkshire paid their second visit to the wicket. They declared after scoring 199 for 5 wickets, but of these Leyland actually compiled 153 and remained unbeaten. He thrashed the Hampshire bowlers and scored at a terrific rate, completely overshadowing everything else.

Another unusual match was that between Middlesex and Leicester. The latter battled first and collapsed the Londoners' attack to such an extent as to put 479 runs on the board for the loss of 6 wickets. At this total they declared, but Middlesex, making the same use of a plum wicket went on to pass this huge score, aggregating 573 before the close of the innings. Hearne (158), Hendren (144) and Lee (102) were the batsmen to reduce the Leicester attack to impotency.

The meeting of Notts and Glamorgan was also featured by some exceptionally high scoring. Notts compiled 386, Shipston (102 not out) and A. W. Carr (92) scoring the runs, but the Welshmen did not take long to indicate how prolific were they going to be at the wicket. M. J. Turnbull, playing some of the best cricket of his career, put together 205 and he received splendid support from Dai Davies, who reached 105 before dismissal. This allowed Glamorgan to score 502 and there was never any hopes of a definite conclusion.

Gloucester were the third team to pass the 500 mark in a singles innings, when they completely outplayed Lancashire and were unlucky in not taking full points. Hammond hit up 264 out of a total of 514 and Lancashire were always in the toils, being first dismissed for 248 and the end coming when they had scored 157 for 7.

Over 1,000 runs were scored in the inconclusive match between Surrey and Northants, and these for the loss of but 31 wickets.

The only game in which bowlers enjoyed the upper hand was the encounter between All India and Kent at Canterbury, where Nissar took 6 for 92 and Amar Singh 5 for 75 for the visitors, whilst Freeman replied with 6 for 68 for Kent, who won by 58 runs.—Reuter.

SURREY'S "POOR. SPORTSMANSHIP"

SHABBINESS OF OUTLOOK

London, July 20.

"Unexampled poor sportsmanship and a shabbiness of outlook that killed the match—"

This criticism was hurled at Allom, acting captain of Surrey in Jardine's absence, after his failure to compel Lancashire to follow on when 168 behind Surrey.

Surrey made 8 for 444 (declared) in the first innings, and Lancashire 280. Surrey then batted again, and won on the first innings.

"If cricket were ruled by an organisation like the Football Association, there would be an enquiry and suspensions," says The Manchester Guardian.

"Surrey had a reasonable chance of victory and could not lose, but they made no effort to win."

"Indeed, Surrey didn't seem to want to win. An explanation is due from the Surrey committee."

SAFER FLYING

BIG IMPROVEMENTS TO CAPE AIR ROUTE

London, Aug. 26.
In accordance with the recent announcement that the B.E.T. trustees would devote the funds at their disposal to the improvement of the air route across northern and southern Rhodesia, the project has now been approved. It includes the provision of additional landing grounds, the completion and enlargement of others, and the improvement in meteorological services.

When these improvements, the immediate cost of which will be about £11,000, have been completed, pilots flying between the Tanganyika border and Transvaal will have at their disposal a chain of landing spaces at shorter intervals than are to be found anywhere in Europe, the average distance between them not exceeding 50 miles.

The Times applauds the "combined safety and regularity of air transport over this difficult section of the route between England and the Cape." Nor is it only the Imperial Airways that will be grateful to the B.E.T. trustees for their practical recognition of the importance of putting its ground organisation on a sounder footing. The multiplication of landing places must in time open up the route to a type of small machines of only one engine, whose pilots, because they are necessarily more liable than big liners to engine trouble, may well hesitate to run the risk of flying over country where the result of a forced landing will at present be almost certain disaster.—British Wireless.

BABY is always happy at teething time if crisp "Ovaltine" Rusks are given to him to bite upon when the first little teeth are making their appearance. With the assistance of these delicious rusks the tiny teeth come easily and quickly through the gums. Strong, healthy teeth with good formation are promoted. Baby delights in the crispness of "Ovaltine" Rusks. As he grows older they should continue to form part of the daily dietary. Efficient mastication is encouraged—and this has a vital bearing upon health.

In the manufacture of "Ovaltine" Rusks the finest wheaten flour is used—unbleached, unadulterated—and guaranteed absolutely pure. The addition of a proportion of "Ovaltine"—the supreme tonic food beverage—adds to their nutritive value, gives them a fascinating flavour and renders them easy of digestion.

Adults, too, prefer them to bread, toast or biscuits. They are particularly delightful when eaten with cheese at lunch, supper or any light meal.

CLEANER COOKING & ECONOMY FOR YOUR KITCHEN.

Prices from H.K. $135 upwards.

For years the kitchen was the "Black-hole" of the Hongkong home . . . just a place in which the cook worked. Now comes the realization that this most important of rooms can be made just as clean, as tidy and satisfying to your ideas of propriety as any other room in the house—And so . . . the kitchen of to-day need no longer be the sooty eye-sore of a room it used to be, but a bright, sootless healthy place . . . a room which it will be a pleasure to show to your friends. Many people have found the secret of this metamorphosis and, every day, more women are discovering the happy wisdom of cooking by electricity, the beauty and cleanliness of Moffats Electric Ranges and the surprising economy it is possible to effect by their use.

COMPANY MEETING. DIRECTORS' REMUNERATION INCREASED

A confirmatory meeting of shareholders of the Hongkong Engineering and Construction Company, Ltd., was held yesterday afternoon, to consider a resolution passed at an extraordinary meeting held on August 10 proposing an increase of Directors' remuneration.

The following were present:—The Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, Managing Director, Mr. J. Scott Harrison, Mr.
Lo Cheung Shiu, and Mr. L. Kadoorie, members of the Board of Directors;
Mr. A. R. F. Raven, General Works
Manager, Mr. B. Alves, Secretary, and Messrs. H. Braga, A. M. Braga,
A. A. Botelho, W. H. Choy, M. A.
Gomes and M. H. Lo, shareholders.

In opening the meeting, the Hon.
Mr. J. P. Braga, who presided, said:
Gentlemen, at the extraordinary meeting held on Wednesday, the 10th August, you passed the following resolution for the increase of Directors' remuneration as from 1st January, 1932. That Resolution must now be confirmed by this meeting. I, therefore, move for your confirmation of the resolution as follows:

"That the Articles of Association of the Company be altered in manner following:

"(a) By the deletion of the whole of Article 98 of the Company's Articles of Association and by the substitution of the following Article in its place.

"98. From and after the 1st day of January, 1932, each Director other than the Managing Director shall be paid by way of remuneration for his services at the rate of $2,000 per annum and such remuneration shall be deemed to accrue de die in diem and shall be payable by half yearly instalments."

I shall be glad if a shareholder will be good enough to second the motion.

The resolution was seconded by Mr. W. H. Choy, and carried unanimously, and the meeting closed.

BROOKLYN BREAKDOWN

IN 3rd INNING

Cubs Send Nine Runs Across the Plate

New York, Aug. 26. Brooklyn were beaten for the third time by Chicago Cubs today, breaking down completely in the third inning, when the Cubs scored nine runs with a barrage of eight hits, sending Thurston and Dizzy "Vance" to the showers. The Dodgers struggled gallantly afterwards and Taylor and Wilson obtained home runs, but they went down 10-1.

Pittsburgh scored a good win against the Phillies, thanks to Chagnon, who allowed only seven scattered hits, the Phillies failing to score.

Ott and Hubbell hit home runs for the Giants, but these were the sum total of the runs and St. Louis made further progress. In the American, Ruth and Gehrig hit for the circuit to enable the Yankees to again beat Cleveland, while Grove, Simmons and Fox did a like service for the Athletics. Boston outdid 18 to 13 by Chicago won by 11 runs to 8, despite Chingnon home runs by Appling and Berry.

FURTHER SUM VOTED FOR NEW BUILDING

At an extraordinary general meeting of the Kowloon Cricket Club yesterday in the Club's Pavilion at King's Park, the General Committee was authorized to expend a further $15,000 on the new club-house, in addition to the $50,000 already sanctioned.

The new club-house is an imposing building and is a great improvement on the old one. It is understood that it will be officially opened on September 17.

OTTAWA—AND AFTER

During the afternoon the Prime Minister met each of the delegates, and to-morrow a meeting of the Cabinet will be held for more formal consideration of the work of what is likely to prove a historic Conference.

TO NIGHT'S BROADCAST.

Although delegates were immediately approached by press representatives for interviews, both at Southampton and at Waterloo Station, they contented themselves with general statements, and the first considered review of Ottawa will be made to-morrow night in a broadcast speech by Mr. Baldwin.

Royal Air Force planes and flying boats circled round the Empress of Britain as the liner made her way up Southampton Water one hour before scheduled time. Ships' whistles and sirens sounded a loud welcome as the vessel approached port and the delegates chatted freely with officials and others who boarded the liner from tender off the Isle of Wight.

The Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, told press representatives that he believed the Conference had in every way been successful.

IRISH ISSUE.

Questioned regarding his conversations with the Irish Free State delegates, Mr. Thomas said he had many opportunities of discussing the difficulties with them, and he had hoped that the proposals he had made would have resulted in a settlement. If that had not been achieved, he added he was sure he had cleared the ground for further discussion.

In these conversations, he had acted with the complete concurrence of his colleagues at Ottawa, and although he had not deviated from the attitude assumed before the Conference, he could hope that the door had been opened, as a result of them, for further discussion for a peaceful settlement of the outstanding differences.

The conclusion of the Ottawa Conference marks the end of an important phase in the reorganization of inter-Empire trade, but the task of putting into effect the Ottawa discussions must involve the Governments of Britain and the Dominions in heavy work during the next few weeks.

TARIFF REDUCTION.

Meanwhile, the framework of the economic relations within the Empire having been settled, it has become possible for the Govern-

SILVER MARKET FIRMER

HONGKONG DOLLAR RISES

The silver market is decidedly firmer to-day, and accordingly the Hongkong dollar has risen 1/8th to 1s. 4 1/8d. The local market is quite steady, although the undertone is uncertain.

In London, silver rose 3/16th, chiefly due to speculative buying. There were small offerings. After the official fixing, the market ruled firm on America buying.

New York reports a rise of a quarter in silver, with the market steady.

ment in Britain to proceed with efforts to promote Britain's world trade through negotiations with other Powers for a mutual reduction of tariffs.

Soon after Britain had decided to end the system of free imports, offers to open such negotiations were received from many Governments. The reply was returned that the time was not ripe for negotiations, as, clearly, the first task was to seek agreement with members of the British Commonwealth.

The way is now clear however for such negotiations, and the Times warmly welcomes the announcements that the Danish Government has made all necessary plans to proceed with discussions for a trade agreement and that the Argentine Ambassador is now on his way back to London, bringing with him concrete proposals for agreements mutually advantageous to Britain and Argentine.

OTHERS MAY FOLLOW.

"There can be no doubt," the Times adds, "that most of the countries to whom the British market is important will follow the example of Denmark and Argentina and will show themselves eager to come to fair arrangements for the encouragement of mutual trade now that we are no longer willing to buy freely from those who refuse to buy from us."

The Times refers to efforts in which British Ministers have exhausted themselves at a series of international conferences since the war, in an attempt to reduce tariff walls, until it began to be realised that the greatest service Britain could render to the cause of international trade was to abandon the system of one-sided imports.—British Wireless.

BABY is always happy at teething time if crisp "Ovaltine" Rusks are given to him to bite upon when the first little teeth are making their appearance. With the assistance of these delicious rusks the tiny teeth come easily and quickly through the gums. Strong, healthy teeth with good formation are promoted. Baby delights in the crispness of "Ovaltine" Rusks. As he grows older they should continue to form part of the daily dietary. Efficient mastication is encouraged—and this has a vital bearing upon health.

In the manufacture of "Ovaltine" Rusks the finest wheaten flour is used—unbleached, unadulterated—and guaranteed absolutely pure. The addition of a proportion of "Ovaltine"—the supreme tonic food beverage—adds to their nutritive value, gives them a fascinating flavour and renders them easy of digestion.

Adults, too, prefer them to bread, toast or biscuits. They are particularly delightful when eaten with cheese at lunch, supper or any light meal.

For years the kitchen was the "Black-hole" of the Hongkong home . . . just a place in which the cook worked. Now comes the realization that this most important of rooms can be made just as clean, as tidy and satisfying to your ideas of propriety as any other room in the house—And so . . . the kitchen of to-day need no longer be the sooty eye-sore of a room it used to be, but a bright, sootless healthy place . . . a room which it will be a pleasure to show to your friends. Many people have found the secret of this metamorphosis and, and every day, more women are discovering the happy wisdom of cooking by electricity, the beauty and cleanliness of Moffats Electric Ranges and the surprising economy it is possible to effect by their use.
